

KEVIN J. FIORE BIO

Kevin Fiore concentrates his practice on construction, design and energy law along with commercial disputes. He handled Homeowner and Condo Association cases when he was partner at David St John's office. He has over 30 years combined experience as a trial advocate in jury and non-jury trials, mediator and arbitrator. He represented public and private owners, design professionals, contractors and subcontractors primarily in Pennsylvania and Florida. He has tried cases in the multi-million dollar range and performs most legal writing and trial independently. One jury trial where he represented a national design firm extended three months and resulted in precedent published in Pennsylvania appellate courts. Mr. Fiore is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh School of Engineering with a Master of Energy Resources. He is also a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh School of Law with a Juris Doctor.

Current or former member of: Florida, Pennsylvania, Allegheny & Palm Beach County Bar Associations; Florida Bar environmental and land use division; Palm Beach County Bar Committee on Construction law continuing education; American Arbitration Association; Engineers Society of Western Pennsylvania; Other licenses included Florida real estate broker; Florida mortgage broker; Contract Attorney for South Florida Water Management District; Keynote speaker at Contract Specification Writers Institute, Annual meeting, Pittsburgh; The Title Fund of Florida member and agent; City Zoning Board. Mr. Fiore has completed the Florida Supreme Court Mediation training program and has recently changed his practice to focus more on alternative dispute resolution than litigation.
